FROM THE FILES OF THE CALL

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Hogan Crossen entertained a large number of the younger people at a sleigh ride, skating and curling last week. Two girls report at there is no gentleman like Hogan.

A rink consisting of R. McQueen, G. Gooderham, A. F. MacCormick and A. Finnigan have been McLeod to enter the hospital bazaar. They were invited to the southern town by L. Cuthbert a former Gleichenite.

W. F. Ferguson for Vancouver received a combination business and pleasure trip.

Recently while playing on top of a box car Cabin Baye, age 10, tripped on a nail and fell headlong between two cars and the ground. He picked up a stone from his lower jaw, it was broken, his face skinned up and his forehead cut. It is thought the steps between the cars helped to break the force of the fall, otherwise his injury would have been more serious. Dr. Ferguson attended him.

James Greer's sister, whose home is in Alaska is at present visiting him. This is the first time they have seen each other since he left.

Mr. and Mrs. G. House accompanied by W. Caldwell have left for the Peace River country to look after a large number of horses they have in that part of the country.

Mrs. M. E. Riddell of Arrowwood spent a few days last week visiting at the home of Mrs. R. Hayes north of town.

The farm home of Casper Bartsch, south of Gleichen was destroyed by fire last week with a loss of east thousand dollars. Mr. Bartsch and little child were home at the time but only managed to save a few articles from their kitchen.

Al D. Moore who some twenty years ago was the champion lightweight fighter in the country challenged the present day champion pugilist of Gleichen to a bout.

Walter Boos, who as a young lad resided in Gleichen some eleven years ago, was in town last week for several days assisting Accountant Collins audit the books of the Blackfoot Municipality and the Town of Gleichen.

Our local retailers who paid 20 cents for No. 1 eggs on Saturday last, got a job on Monday morning when the price of the eggs to Calgary and were offered 11 cents a dozen. This situation is sure out of joint when eggs in January are demanding only 11 cents a dozen.

GRILL COOKERY

Here are some handy tips for those who have to prepare meals on hot plates or electric grills.

Regardless of what you are cooking, it is best to parboil your meat or a wife feeding her husband the home economics of the consumer section, department of agriculture says that the minimum equivalent for a good cookery meal should include a medium double boiler, with a top part that will also fit into a tea kettle; frying pan with a lid; sauceron with a lid; small glass caserole to fit into sauceron; coffee maker and percolator; The miscellaneous equipment should include measuring spoons and cups, paring knives, vegetable peeler, grater, sieve, lemon squeezer, egg beater.

Margot and Bob Christie of Toronto are one of the most unusual couples in Canadian radio. They have played in dozens of network dramas—but never together. Late Sunday afternoon while Margot is rehearsing her role of Miss Henshaw the sharp-and mixing house.

Two most convenient pieces of equipment are a pressure cooker and a triple boiler. The pressure cooker increases the variety of dishes that may be prepared on a grill. Steaks, braised meats, baked beans and steamed puddings can be cooked comparatively quickly under pressure. With a triple boiler, it is possible to cook three foods at one time, because it has three pans designed to fit together on a single burner.

The meal should be planned for serving in the same order as the Canadian Food Rules provide an excellent guide for knowing what to include in them.

The meal plan could be kept flexible so that leftovers and foods good for supply may be used. Staples food can be used for soups if no storage space is available, whereas cereals should be bought in small quantities when needed. Be sure to buy by grade and watch for good value.

A collection of quick, easy, inexpensive recipes is a good idea. These are usually based on six servings, so, to reduce the ingredients for one or two persons, simply multiply the quantity.

If imagination and initiative are used, practically all dishes can be prepared with a stove or quickly in a grill.

As the menu course for dinner there are always soups, casseroles, liver and bacon steaks cut-up chicken and fish, with a pot-roast for Sunday. But other quick and easy-to-prepare dishes are good, too. For example, if French toast except that tomato juice is used in place of milk; vegetable or cheese spaghetti; macaroni with a good meat sauce; ham and beans; hard boiled eggs or leftover meats served on toast.

With limited cooking space, it is important to cook foods quickly so that they may be ready for use. Vegetables should be pre-cooked quickly, cutting them into small pieces and cooking them either in boiling water or in a pressure sauceron. Most desserts can be prepared the previous night, or even the day before, and re-heated in the top of the double boiler. Pudding sauces also can be made ahead of time and re-heated at the last minute. This relieves the situation of having to cook too much at one time.

Mrs. Jane Boos

Mrs. Jane Boos aged 88 years died last Wednesday at the home of her step son, W. Boos. Mrs. Boos came to Gleichen about seven months ago from Elk Point, Alberta, some 150 miles east of Edmonton. She was born in the eastern States and had spent most of her life in Western Canada.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Ed. Magnuson of Elk Point, who attended the funeral; a son, Wm. Jeanie of Gladstone, Elk Point; and two daughters, Mrs. Edward and Mrs. Edward, both of Gleichen. Three sisters, one living in Arizona and the other two in Shelby, Mont.

The funeral took place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. Wm. Morrison officiating. Services being held at the family residence.

Interment was made in the Gleichen cemetery.

The pallbearers were Messers S.

Hampton, R. C. Clifford, F. Warner and L. Wilson.

Seal Fund Short

The district is still $100 short of the $10,000 Christmas Seal Fund total for 1951-52, according to Donald King, chairman of the Medicine Hat Lions Club Christmas Seal committee. Receipts to Friday totalled $8,510 for this district.

The national Christmas Seal receipts reported by D. W. Robertson, treasurer of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, amounted to $159,500 towards the provincial goal of $165,000 this year.

The Alberta campaign is still $25,500 short of the $165,000 goal.

The X-ray program will suffer if the objective is not reached, Mr. Robertson said. Nineteen Alberta hospitals have made available 200 X-ray equipment or grants. He pointed out that special X-ray machines in hospitals make 50 cent X-rays available to all patients and bring light much unsupervised tuberculosis cases to the attention of medical conditions including heart disease and cancer. It is the desire of the association to prepare X-ray equipment available to unattached hospitals but expense depends entirely on a successful conclusion of the Christmas Seal campaign.

Alberta residents who have not already done so are urged to send in their contribution to help bring in the 1951 Christmas Seal campaign to a successful conclusion. Income tax receipts will be issued on request.

THE QUESTION OF DAMP GRAIN

One most serious difficulty that many farmers have to contend with this year is that of keeping the damp grain we have harvested. There is, however, danger now with any grain that was stored when the weather, and so the grain, was warm. Universities and provincial government agricultural extension agents have already made many experiments to try out means of keeping this damp grain from heating.

At the moment the results of most of these experiments are not available, although some are being carried out.

Crop Testing Plan is collecting information from every source that is available and the results of it will be distributed, as quickly as possible, among farmers.

Meanwhile, farmers might try water experiments by making use of their neighbors and note the results obtained.—World of Wheat.

A little girl was proudly showing her playmate the den she had "Dad is my daddy's den," she said. "Does your daddy have a den?" "No," was the reply. "He just grows all over the house."

ATOMIC ATTACK

The various civil defence organizations in Canadian centres are doing a nice job of making people aware of the potential horrors inherent in an atomic bomb attack. At the same time they are emphasizing that there are certain things in which the public can come to the defence, with the resultant saving in life and property. They emphasize certain positive things to be done as soon as the atomic bomb sirens sound.

An interesting article taken a negative approach to atomic attacks and of for the advice we are reproducing below. There's truth in what they say, though, and I think that out of that advice, think of what you say, particularly, and result.

As soon as the bombs start dropping—run like heck. It won't do any good but it keeps your mind off more important things.

If you find an unexploded bomb, always pick it up and shake it. The firing pin is probably stuck and bombs in that condition are a constant source of danger.

Always be aware of circumstances get excited and shout. It will add to the confusion and scares the devil out of little kids.

To go to the nearest hospital and start crying. If you're really bad, you might want to call the fire department, though, they will be busy and appreciate not being called.

Always eat heavily of garlic and onions, drink beer and drink strong wine before entering a shelter. This makes you a bit unpopular, but it is surprising how much more room you get.

Knock those doors in charge of if they always seem the best seats for themselves anyway.

If you should be the victim of a direct hit, don't let it upset you. Don't under any circumstances fly pieces. Just lie down and relax, you're dead.

First after a hard day a distasteful sandwich handed the menu back to the waiter and said: "I just had a good meal!" A good meal was served and the waiter received a generous tip. "Thank you sir!" the waiter said "and if you get any friends what can't read you just send them to me."

"Do you participate in many entertainments in Europe?" I asked a middle aged lady of whom I had just met. "Only five," she replied with modesty.

"And you came through all of them unharmed?" "Not exactly," he replied sadly. "I married the fifth."

These were selected as the sweetest words in the English language: I love you. Dinner is served. All is bright and cheery. Eat, eat, eat, keep the change. Here's that frown. And the sadness? External use only. Buy one. Out of gas. Dues not paid. Funds not sufficient. Rest in peace.

Prospects For 1952

EXPERIENCE TEACHES that forecasts are by no means infallible, but it is natural to speculate upon the future, and the beginning of a New Year is always the occasion for the discussion of prospects in various fields in the coming months. Farmers are always interested in the possibilities of good crops in the season ahead and they are also concerned with the prospects of marketing their products. At the 10th annual meeting of the Canadian Agricultural Marketing Association, forecasts for farm products in 1952 were discussed and federal agricultural experts made some optimistic forecasts which should be encouraging to farmers at this time.

A Demand For Farm Products

The year 1951 has been a year of record production for most farm products in Canada, and the general expectation is that demand for wheat is expected to be strong. It is predicted that Canadian wheat will be in short supply in the spring of 1952 and that the end of the current year, but the delegates to the conference were told that world demand is strong and little difficulty is expected in disposing of this near-record crop. Authorities believe that beef prices will remain at the same levels as in the United States but that the price of pork may fall, due to increased production. Firm prices were predicted for eggs and butter and increases in the price of milk were indicated.

Is Encouraging To The Farmers

All these forecasts are based on conditions as far as they can be judged at the present time, and unforeseen circumstances may always arise to change the situation. However, it is most encouraging for farmers to enter the New Year with prospects of good markets and firm prices. Farm income has increased steadily in recent years, but there is still room for improvement. The rate of living has also soared in the same period and farmers have not benefited from either grain or higher incomes. Unlike many other workers, farmers are dependent upon fluctuations in prices, often governed by world market conditions for their income, and the sale of their products is of great importance to them. It is to be hoped that no circumstances will arise to interfere with the forecasts made by the agricultural experts for the sale of products in 1952.

FIRST B.C. OIL WELL PRODUCING

VANCOUVER— Allied Fort St. John No. 1, B.C. discovery well that touched off a scramble for oil acreage in the area, is now producing at 30 barrels per day.

Two more wells will be started immediately, said Frank M. McManus, president of Pacific Petroleum Ltd., announcing results of production test at No. 1.

The discovery well is of high gravity, containing 30° API, and is being drilled to recover the oil from the sandstone in Custer when the well was brought in.

"We will now drill Pacifico No. 3, about one-half mile northwest of No. 1," Mr. McManus said. "Production will be about six and one-half miles northwest."

Temperatures around 40 below in the Fort St. John area are hampering work.

HINTS OF OTHERS
If you catch a cold this fall or winter, think of others—don't cough and sneeze without first covering up, preferably with a disposable handkerchief.

Tips On Frost Bite

The object of treatment for frost bite is to bring the frozen part back to normal temperature gradually and restore circulation.

1. Do not massage, rubbing snow is specially bad. The frozen tissues will become torn and torn, and gangrene may result.

2. Keep the patient away from fire until he is able to move his hands.

3. Gently cover the frozen part with the hand or other body surface until the part is thawed and circulation re-established. If a hand is frozen, hold it between the fingers or between the thighs—or it may be thawed very gradually in cool air or cold water (not warm), or by covering the part with extra clothing.

4. Apply soothing ointment, as to a burn-frost bite is similar in effect.

Funny and Otherwise

Sunny, I heard at Mr. Smith isn't welcome at the Jones' house anymore, and that it all started the night he accepted their invitation.

Honey: Yes, he wanted to show his appreciation for the dinner invitation, so he brought a gift.

Honey: What's wrong with that?

Honey: The gift was a cookbook.

"What was all the noise over at the Brown's house, last night?"

"Oh, Brownie had some trouble with his wife."

"Really? Good for him! Usually he just has words from his wife."

1st Man: "Do you run things at your house?"

2nd Man: "Yeah, the washing machine and the furnace."

The elderly spinster sniffed when anyone suggested that it was too bad she did not have a husband.

"I have a dog that groans, a parrot that talks, a bird that smokes, and a cat that stays out all night. Why should I want a husband?"

Jill: "How'd you ever get rid of that bird?"

Lili: "He told me he was a expert bird imitator, and asked me to name any bird I wanted him to imitate."

Jill: "So?"

Lili: "I said 'the homing pigeon.'"

The problem—A motorist was 100 yards from an open level railway crossing and was traveling at 50 miles per hour. A train was also approaching at 50 miles an hour, and its distance from the crossing was 375 feet.

The question—Did the motorist stop?

Solution—Yes, the motorist got a cross. His widow bought it out of the insurance money.

"What made that red mark on your face?" asked Schmitz. "Glasses?"

Smith: "How many glasses?"

From home we find the ex-

quately modern, and the shop-

walker felt his heart beat faster.

She added: "I wonder what could get the for the eyebrows."

The shopwalker was inclined to deafness, and misunderstood her. "I'm sorry, madam, I'm upstairs, madam," he began.

"But I want them for eyebrows."

"Very highbrow stuff! Better ask for them at the book counter."

During arithmetic class the teacher said: "Now, boys, I want you to work out what interest of 1 per cent on $100 for two years for would come to."

The whole class set to work diligently, with the exception of little Solly, in the back row.

"What's the matter?" asked the teacher. "Don't you know how to do arithmetic?"

"One per cent doesn't interest me," said Solly.

People Still Seek Legendary Mine At Lost Creek, B.C.

Supposed to have been Discovered in 1855 by an Indian—Since Then 21 Men Have Disappeared Trying to Find It

VANCOUVER—Two types of people still seek the legendary Lost Creek mine, the "reputable" ones and the "scrubholers." That's how Carl Agar classifies them. Those who come to him for a helicopter ride to the mountain where the gold mine is supposed to be located, only some 50 miles north of here, are "reputable," he says. Those who come to him for a helicopter ride to the wilderness where the gold mine is supposed to be located, are "scrubholers."

Agar is a flying service operator, which runs five helicopters, the only such service in British Columbia. Agar, incidentally, is 1960 King of the Month, a monthly award annually to the person contributing the most to flying in Canada.

Lost Creek mine, the legend goes, was discovered in 1855 by an Indian, who, unfortunately, was hanged for murder without revealing his secret.

Since then, 21 men have disappeared trying to find it.

One of Agar's helicopters flew in the 21st century to Albert Gaspard, about two years ago.

Agar said Gaspard was one of 100 miners who had been prospecting in the area. Gaspard, a prospector knew what he was doing and what he was up against.

"He says if he took all the gold out at once he'd lose it in income tax."

His toes are sticking out of his shoes!"

Among the 10 or 12 has been one woman.

"She's from down south about taking any food," Agar said. "I don't know how they expect to live, or how they plan to get out. They have to look for the gold, then they sleep, they eat."

"I'm not taking anybody else in unless they are reputable parties who understand travel and the responsibilities involved in flying in the bush."

Does he believe in the legend?

"If we thought there was anything there we'd be out there after it ourselves."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Four-Sided Triangle

Long Understood Triangles Had Three Sides. :: By Lilliae M. Mitchell

LONA understood plainly that triangles had three sides. In fact she would have agreed that triangles were seen with anything more or less than three sides. That is, at four o'clock on that afternoon she understood that so.

All day long Lona had been moving into an apartment above Lona's. In the morning when the van had backed up to the curb, Lona had scurried into the flat again to hide her red eyes. Instead of getting at the truth, Lona had been crying bitterly. She loved George. If she had an ounce of pride, she would stinkify and tell him, "We go on as we are, old sweethearts, for yours, if you still think so much of her." Clara! You call that beautiful! I'm not going to tell him what you want to know! What a K-K-K sound at the end of her name. Go to heaven she's got good fat, too!

George did not mention Clara often, but when he did, he mentioned how pretty and smart she had been; how her hair curled in tendrils like his. Go to heaven she was fragrant, she always had a sweet, sweet-tempered. This last he always brought forth if Lona became impatient with his talk of Clara.

The new neighbor upstairs was hurrying about with the settling of furniture. When she had come to Robin up there, the new neighbor was saying, "Robin, hang your clothes out to dry. I'll wash them for you by, I said. — Robin, put those books in the bookcase carefully! Carefully, I said."

The voice came down clearly. Lona went to the back porch to see who Robin was. The new neighbor was saying, "Robin, hang your clothes out to dry. I'll wash them for you by, I said. — Robin, put those books in the bookcase carefully! Carefully, I said."

"Hello, youngster!" said Lona. "Hello," he greeted shyly. "Quickly, I said," called the neighbor.

ODDITIES

In the News

When George came home Lona was in a state between amusement and anger.

She had prepared a thick steak with date of butter over the top. Mashed potatoes, a tomato salad and marshmallow cakes completed the meal. George had gone skating on an wedding anniversary with the exception of last year when the weather was bad. He skated straight, I said.

George glanced up, pucker'd his lips and fell to eating.

"The wretched woman! It was Clara's voice, Lona," he muttered. "Wouldn't it be funny if after all these years Clara happened to be married and living with another man?"

Funny! Lona failed to see anything amiss about the supposition. After the meal, George had the little Robin to do something. "Today, I said" for the fifteenth or sixtieth time, "I'll go to the beach, George, hang my clothes on the table and rose to her feet.

"For heaven's sake!" he snarled. "If I had to keep you around any longer, I'd smash your head in with a hammer and not inflict it on the neighbors! Little women be worth living for, but that's all up! I'll tell her to shut her mouth!"

Lona jumped up. "Why, George, you can't be serious! Don't have them think we're crazy!"

But George was already going up the back steps three at a time and from above the women's voice was to be heard. "Pardon me, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, but our horses were harnessed at the rear to stop it in case of emergency."

The historic coach of the Lord Mayor of London, built in 1757, was to be sold at auction. The horses were harnessed at the rear to stop it in case of emergency.

of the Far East. Chief of the divisions on which Communists ride to power are those among minority groups.

In Burma the Karen and Burmans never trusted each other. The Karen largest minority group in Burma, have long dreamed of forming a separate state by force of arms if necessary.

In this situation it is of vital importance to the future of democracy when the bulk of the 1,200,000 Karen largely take responsibility for the lawlessness of his own people toward the Burmans.

"Save Ba Gyi (the Karen leader) offers own land to Government to make amends for looting of treasury funds," says a leading headline.

The translation of the Karen leader's speech before the members of Burma's hill tribes, ministers, and representatives of the oil companies is even more revolutionary than the headline. It reflects an entire-right-about-face in the attitude of the Karen towards the government.

One wonders what might happen in the free world if its statesmen would take responsibility, risking even their power and prestige, to heal the divisions among their own people.
